Taking an CLOSE look at nickels.

Hello Everyone!

We sure do have some yummy lunches planned for January's lunch menu! Students did a great job of recording and compiling data, picking healthy and balanced meals, and working as a team while planning their menus – a very successful experience! Our plan is to continue working on our food production skits and to jump into food and culture!

These students are amazing! I can hardly keep up with all of their sight words! I can tell they've been practicing at home because they are really moving along! In math we've looking closely at pennies and nickels… so close we've even had out the magnifying glasses! Besides for looking at money, we've also been working on trading in coins to make a certain amount with the smallest number of coins (so far, small amounts with pennies and nickels). We continue to work on counting by 2's, 5's, and 10's (these skills really help when counting money).

Friday homework is in their backpacks. Everyone should have a sight words list specific to them. Some students have signed up and met with me to see if they were ready to move on to the next list and some have not signed up so they will still have the same list as last week. Homework will be due Friday, November 20th.
